

Jorge Varela Zamora

A Cross-Platform Applications Degree student.

28922 Alcorcón, Madrid, España | +34 640 71 63 39 | jorgevarelazamora@gmail.com | 17/08/2000

---

Dear hiring team:

I wish to apply for the post of Software Developer Internship which you advertised in february on LinkedIn.

Currently, I am working at Amazon, and the responsibilities include delivering packages to households, managing the order of the delivered packages, routes, and driving a van.

I am particularly interested in this offer because your enterprise is international, you develop under Kotlin, which is my favourite programming language, and you have people working with you that studied the same things as me.

I would be well suited to the position because I have already developed some projects on my own, posted on my linkedin, although I have no working experiences at any enterprise.

During my time as a student, I improved my skills with databases, programming with object oriented languages, and connection-based servers. I also have a high school Diploma.

Working as a waiter and van driver, I have proven that I can maintain high standards, even under pressure, and that I can work in a team environment, sharing skills and knowledge with my colleagues.

My native language is Spanish, but I have a provable B2 level of English, so I can have a professional talk in both languages.

I have exceptional communication skills, logical thinking, and analytical skills.

Thank you for taking the time to read this Cover Letter.

I look forward to having a personal discussion on why I am particularly suited for this position.

Please, contact me via phone call or email.

Yours faithfully : Jorge Varela Zamora.