Jorge: Can you tell me something about yourself?

@YoussefAKQ: Well, my name is Youssef, I'm 20 years old, and I'm currently studying DAM. Besides my studies, I worked for three months as a cashier and stock clerk during the summer, which helped me develop responsibility and teamwork skills. I'm a curious and detail-oriented person who enjoys solving problems through code.

Jorge: We have people in our team with no work experience, but we think it's a plus that you have already worked and demonstrated your loyalty for another company for three months in a row.
Why are you interested in this position?

@YoussefAKQ: I'm interested because it's a great opportunity to apply what I've learned and keep improving as a developer. I want to gain real-world experience, work with a team, and take on new challenges.

Jorge: We are at the vanguard of new technologies, I'm sure you will take ambitious challenges.
What are the strengths you will bring to the company?

@YoussefAKQ: I have a solid foundation in Java, JavaScript, and SQL. I'm a problem solver, responsible, and I work well both independently and in a team. My previous job also helped me develop discipline and adaptability.

Jorge: That is exactly what we are looking for, a person that has good interpersonal skills, and knowledge about that languages.
How do you want to improve yourself in the next year?

@YoussefAKQ: I want to strengthen my full-stack development skills, especially in React and Next.js. I also want to work on real projects, improve my problem-solving abilities, and learn best practices from experienced developers.

Jorge: Would you prefer to work for a big company or a small one? What are the advantages and disadvantages in each case?

@YoussefAKQ: A big company gives stability, and a small one lets you learn faster and take on more responsibility. I'm more interested in learning and growing, so I'd be happy in either.

Jorge: We are a small company, but you will have at least a team of four, how well do you work with people?

@YoussefAKQ: I work well in a team. I like discussing ideas, learning from others, and solving problems together. My previous job taught me to communicate effectively and collaborate under pressure.

Jorge: We are proud of our team, which is constantly searching for ways to get comfortable spaces for work, and letting people be the best they can, relationships included.
What is a good working environment for you?

@YoussefAKQ: A place with good communication, teamwork, and respect. I appreciate an environment where I can ask questions, learn, and contribute while feeling valued.

Jorge: I think we are matching. But we have now only one job offer, which is having basic knowledge about programming, we don't have any more. What is your dream job nowadays ? What about next year?

@YoussefAKQ: Right now, I want to gain experience and improve as a developer. In a year, I'd like to specialize more, possibly in full-stack or mobile development, and work on challenging projects that help me grow.
